President of the Republic of Ghana

Welcome

DAASEBRE AKUAMOAH AGYAPONG II
Omanhene of the Kwahu Traditional Area

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you all to the 2022 Kwahu Easter Festivities after a 2 year break due to the debilitating Covid 19 Pandemic, which brought almost everything to its knees including our very cherished “Kwawu Easter”.

The Kwahu Easter, has over the years gained international prominence, and the advent of the Paragliding sport at the Odweanoma peak at Atibie has added more colour to the festivities. I commend the Ministry of Tourism, Arts and Culture, the Ghana Tourism Authority and the various stakeholders along the tourism value chain for their continuing support.

I have keenly followed the preparations and stakeholder engagements which preceded this year's Easter and I am particularly happy with how various projects and activities have been incorporated, all in a bid to add diversity and variety to the existing activities. I have had cause to set up a committee to work with Nananom and the various assemblies to fashion out a workable solution to the very chaotic traffic situation during the Easter, and address other such bottlenecks. Hopefully, this year will see a free flow of revellers and less traffic, after the tremendous work done by the committee.

As we are all aware, Kwahu is steadily evolving into a Tourist destination and it is my fervent hope that, private investors and government continues to find ways to identify and develop the many untapped tourist sites that abound here. It is evident, Kwahu has lot of Tourist sites that if fully developed, will add up to the revenue base of the Country and further enrich the lives of my people. An area of immense interest to me particularly is eco-tourism. I implore nature lovers to go bird watching, explore our beautiful flora and fauna, caves, go on a cruise on the Afram River, spend a day with our hardworking women potters doing marvelous works with clay and other such exciting trails.

As we celebrate this year's Easter, we must still be reminded that Covid 19 is still with us. Let us be mindful and observe all the necessary safety protocols. I urge revelers to also be kind to the environment and leave it better than they met it. Often times, towns have grappled with tons of waste left behind by party goers and businesses. We pride ourselves as some of the cleanest people in Ghana and every visitor can attest to this; please help us maintain that enviable status or even enhance it through your deliberate actions.

I wish also to advise participants on wearing decent clothing, avoiding excessive indulgence in alcohol and avoid the usage of hard and recreational drugs etc. Let us all be moderate in our celebrations, be law-abiding and take our personal security seriously. I am very impressed with the detailed security plans by the Police and other agencies, and I am looking forward to an incident-free Kwahu Easter.

Again, you're duly welcome to this year's Easter celebrations in Kwahu. I thank you all for choosing Kwahu, as your Tourism destination. Enjoy your holidays, have fun. Asaase Aban!

AKWASI AGYEMAN
CEO, Ghana Tourism Authority

The Kwahu Easter Festival is the ideal way for us in tourism to showcase to the country and to the world that indeed, we are “open and ready”. It’s been two difficult years for our sector as we experienced the adverse effects of the COVID-19 pandemic across the entire value chain. Yet we kept hope alive, believing- just as His Excellency the President had stated- that this too was going to pass. We pay tribute to the resilience of all the sector players.

The Kwahu Easter Festival is arguably the biggest festival in the country designed to break down barriers and unite the country.

It is a time for diverse cultures and activities, and a time to celebrate the fact that we’ve got a lot more in common as a people than the differences that separate us.

This year, to bring more structure to the Easter activities, we have teamed up with the Kwahu Traditional Authority, the Kwahu East, West and South Assemblies and other key stakeholders to form a Local Organising Committee (LOC) to ensure visitor experience is enhanced and health and safety considerations are mainstreamed.

The LOC is here to stay and we believe the learnings from this year will help improve on the Kwahu Easter festivities going forward.

It is absolutely more important now than ever that all visitors celebrate responsibly. Lets all remember the Kwahu Easter keeps our culture alive.

We thank the Kwahu Traditional Authority, the Members of Parliament from Kwahu, the Chief Executives of the various assemblies and all the stakeholders involved in this year’s activities. We welcome our pilots who have flown from far to volunteer their time to make the paragliding event a success. We wish you all a successful festival.

KWAHU AT A GLANCE

Kwahu features the highest inhabited spot in Ghana – it is where the Christian Missionaries from Basel found their own “new Switzerland” – and the rocky green plateau breathes fresh air. Mosquitoes are fewer, and though the sun can still take the day temperature up to 36°, the air is not humid and you may even need a light jacket on occasional evenings.

The name Kwahu applies both to the people and the area, and has several dramatic explanations of its origin. One such explanation is that it was given to a tribe which decided to resist the expanding domination of the Ashanti Empire and barricaded itself on a high ridge overlooking the Afram River (Now part of the Volta Lake). These peaceful people were nevertheless stout enough to guard their land by threatening to roll rocks down on anyone who came after them, and so outsiders called the area “Kwahu”- Go and die! We are happy to say that today’s welcome is warmer.

The scenery is equally full of drama, as weather- sculpted rocks tower precariously above ravines and command spectacular views. Waterfalls and huge trees, rivers (trickling in January, racing in July), brilliant flowers and butterflies, wind-swayed crops and above all the great expanse of the man-made Lake Volta, fringed with gaily painted boats, make Kwahu a hidden paradise unlike any other area of Ghana.

Compared with the better known tourist attractions of the Slave dungeons at Cape Coast and Elmina, the Canopy Walk at Kakum, the Cultural Centre at Kumasi, the Sacred Crocodiles at Paga and the Game Reserve at Wa, Kwahu is a quiet country area less frequently visited by Ghanaians or foreigners. This makes it all the more special to discover for yourself. Its hills and valleys, rich forests, high cliffs, wildlife and waterfalls all add up to a rural experience that is quite unexpected in Ghana because the area is not over-exploited, the welcome of the people is sincere and delightful. They are ever ready to include you, whether in town activity or quiet village life, and to share with you the peace that comes from centuries of living in a beautiful place.

The various towns of Kwahu include Nkawkaw, Obo, Obomeng, Mpraeso, Atibie, Nkwatia, Abetifi, Abene and Pepease. The rest are Bep- ong, Asakraka, Twenedurase and Tafo.

The Character of the landscape draws much of its colour from the Traditional (pre-Christian) faith, which holds that all marvels of nature embody the creator. So this rock is a God, that tree is another, and it is hoped you maybe thoughtful enough to toot your horn as you drive across any bridge in case the children of a River Goddess may be playing in the road. Today such instinctive beliefs underlie the very life of Kwahu, emanating a tolerance and understanding which is shared alike by the area’s Christians and Muslims.

Those of us who are devoted to the development of tourism in Kwahu do so from a sense of responsibility to nature, and to the ancient culture which has been the backbone of this area since the ancestors first came here. Folk memories do not stretch back as far as the makers of the Stone-age arrow- heads and knives which have been found here in abundance, but rivers, rocks and caves bear names which testify to the reverence afforded them in ‘Gone Days’.

The forest and its grasslands are full of legends about the small, mysterious- not to say mischievous creatures who used to be all around (and to many, still are) and the wisdom of the ages is enshrined in ancient proverbs, which, enigmatic at first hearing, record the tourism that have provided a testament of wisdom and experience for the Kwahu people. Many of these proverbs have been long ago pictogrammed into symbols known-from their use on funeral cloths- as Adinkra which you will see everywhere as you travel around Ghana.

Ghana has numerous tourism resources across its 16 administrative regions which attracts both domestic and international tourists. The tourism resources within the Kwahu region particularly stands out due to its preserved nature.

The area which is set amidst mountains resembles the Italian region overlooking Lago di Gardo in Lombardy or the surroundings of Interlaken in Switzerland with winding roads uphill towards Beatenberg. An aerial view of portions of the Allegheny Plateau in the United States provides another good description of the Kwahu area.

Characterized with pleasant weather conditions all year round, Kwahu remains ideal for ecotourism and cultural activities in Ghana. Most of the tourism resources in Kwahu are well conserved and naturally undisturbed. Over the years, Kwahu has consciously promoted its cultural resources to the international market through the celebration of Easter and paragliding activities and remain one of the regions in Ghana which upholds royalty, heritage and cultural norms.

The influx of tourists to the area has shaped the hospitality sector as many lodges, motels and state of the art hotels can be found within the enclave. In November 2019, Kwahu Republic a community-based tourism promotion organization formed tourism societies in some senior high schools by way of exposing students to the various tourism resources in Kwahu and empower such students to become tourism ambassador for the area. This will go a long way to instill pride and cultural values in the youth. The varied tourist attractions in Kwahu include; Nkofieho Caves of Life/Mystical Cave, Bruku Rock, River Afram, The Kwahu Aduamaoh Fort, Butuase waterfall, The Kwahu Odweanoma Paragliding, Oworobong Waterfall, Oku Waterfall.

SIGHTSEEING

Oworobong Waterfalls

Oworobong is a small town after Ankoma township also in the Kwahu east District. The waterfall is a wonderful two-level waterfall, misty in full flow and half hidden below tangled and bird-filled trees, which is worth a visit.

Bruku Rock

Bruku is located in Kwahu -Tafo in the Kwahu East District, Bruku as popularly called is best viewed from the Adawso stretch. The “god” bruku is the sacred guard watching over the entire Kwahu enclave. Magnificent as it is, it was once believed to be higher and visible by sailors on the ocean 150 km away.

Afram River

Is a special river in Kwahu as it serves as the connecting gateway between Kwahu and the Afram Plains. The Afram river was a small river that became a vast stream of river after the construction of the Akosombo dam. The beauty of the river is superb especially during the raining season.

Airjays

The Airjays Walkway and Zipline is a 15km path of more than 877 wooden steep stairs ascending to the apex of the Obo Mountain at a dizzying height of about 2,500ft above sea level. It also features the first-ever commercialized 200m Zipline up the slope and a unique 75m canopy walkway on the mountain.

Mystical Cave

The Mystical Cave also known as Nkofieho Cave of Life is believed to be one of the oldest caves in Ghana its an absolutely breath- taking tourist site. The site is located close to the Padlock Rock in Kwahu Twenedurase in the Kwahu South District. Nkofieho Cave is an ecotourism and about 5.11 hectors in size.

Abetifi Stone Age

The Abetifi StoneAge Park is both man made and heritage site with a very fascinating history. Abetifi stone age park is a multi-purpose tourist site and museum which depicts the indigenous stone age era.

Echo Ravine/Padlock Rock

In the forest near Twenedurase just after Obo is a natural wall of rock which responds to your voice with a marvelous echo. You can actually stand on a ledge and call out your name and will never forget the sound of that calling coming back at you. Inside the forest is a formation in the cliff which the locals call Padlock Rock.

Kwahu Aduamaoh Fort

Aduamoah township in the Kwahu East District is well known for the production of tiger nuts in Ghana. It also houses the oldest palace (fort) in Kwahu which is over 300 years old. The palace is the seat of the Kwahu Benkumhene which literally means the chief of the left wing of the Kwahu Traditional set up.

DCE for Kwahu East

As we celebrate the 2022 Kwahu Easter and Paragliding Festival, I believe it is more fitting to express my warmest felicitation on behalf of His Excellency the President, Chiefs and people of the Kwahu East District to all stakeholders who contribute greatly to the development of Tourism and hospitality in the Kwahu East District.

Kwahu East is truly the rising star of the East. Since its inauguration on 29 February 2008, the District Assembly has not relented in bringing whole- some development to the door steps of the people.

The District is rapidly developing into a major hospitality and tourism hub in Ghana, awash with opportunities for private sector investors. The District Assembly, having created a conducive investment atmosphere for private enterprise to thrive, welcomes prospective investors with open arms to develop the numerous tourist sites in the district.

The Kwahu East District can boast of some of the best natural and cultural attractions that can attract both domestic and international tourist in Ghana. The Kwahu Easter and Paragliding festival has become the most patronised festivity among the Kwahus and tourist. It is during Easter that Kwahus in Ghana and abroad return home with friends to celebrate with their families back home. It is expected that for this year's celebration about three million people will be visiting Kwahu with a number of social gatherings and funfair activities scheduled to take place during the four day celebration. The Easter Celebration holds a great potential for tourism if well harnessed by stakeholders. More especially the Paragliding Festival which has gained international attention and patronage.

Kwahu East district is a melting point of culture, and geological treasures. Visitors to Kwahu are spoiled for choice when it comes to some of the best attractions that are located here. These include: the Bruku Shrine and Butuase waterfall at Kwahu Tafo, Oku Abena falls at Bokuruwa, the Gaping Rock at Kotoso, the Highest Habitable Point in Ghana at Abetifi, Oworobong water falls, Ramsey Route at Abetifi. Others are Nana Ampom Adjei cave at Abene, the Echo Mountains at Akwasiho, including the Kwahu Easter festival. As Michael Chabon once said "Entertainment is a sacred pursuit when done well. When done well it raises the quality of human life".

We will continue to count on the Ghana Tourism Authority, Investors and all key stakeholders in our development agenda to collaborate with the District Assembly to diversify and expand the tourism industry for economic development in the district and the country at large in a manner consistent with Government's vision of creating prosperity and equal opportunity for all.

MCE for Kwahu South

In the year 2020, when the Municipality and indeed the whole Kwahu State was preparing for its Annual Homecoming and Easter Celebration, the country was hit with the deadly Corona Virus (COVID-19). Since then, it has been 2 long years the Kwahu Easter Festival was celebrated. The local economy of the Municipality took a nose dive due to the suspension of the Easter festival. Small and Medium Scale entrepreneurs had to divert their investment with some going completely out of business. The tourism and hospitality industry took the greatest of the shock.

We are excited that Kwahu Easter is back. The euphoria is back in full force. Local businesses are springing back to life. This year, the Municipality which is the hot seat of the Easter festival is ready to host all revelers. Odweanoma Paragliding Site, the Echo Raven Drive and other tourism sites in the Municipality have few have been adequately prepared to provide satisfaction to tourists.

The Municipal Assembly and its departments would be on standby to provide the necessary security and sanitation support to make the festival successful.

We welcome all tourists to the Municipality and we wish you a memorable stay.

HON. YAW OWUSU ADDO

MCE for Kwahu West

Once again the legendary Okwahu Easter (Yesu amanehunu) is here with us after the rude two year interruption, consequent upon the frightening effects of the Covid 19 pandemic.

For years the festivities surrounding Easter in the Kwahu enclave had become a much awaited event for most Ghanaians who saw it as an opportunity to “wind down” after a year’s hard work.

I am aware of the effort being put in place by Nananom and partners to gradually develop, as time goes by, a more structured festival to rival some of the world acclaimed carnivals in the Caribbean.

This year’s celebration marks a watershed as we attempt to introduce new events like “ hot air balloon “ flights and ideas including “park and ride” where we encourage car owners to park their vehicles downhill at secure parking lots at Nkawkaw and hitch bus rides uphill, in addition to the ever popular paragliding event.

In the coming years more innovations will be incorporated into the festival to make it more commemorative and worthwhile for revellers. The idea in the longrun, is to make the Kwahu enclave an all year round tourism destination and to monetise the abundant natural and human resources that have, as of now, been left untapped.

No worries about where to lodge. Kwahu now boasts of one of the plushest hotels in West Africa, Rock City , the latest addition to the other starred hotels on our ridge.

A home away from home awaits you this Easter in Kwahu as you come to celebrate the death and resurrection of Jesus, the Christ with us.

Akwaaba.

GENERAL INFORMATION ON PARAGLIDING

Paragliding is an aviation sport that is enjoyed by hundreds of people around the world. It is most popular in Europe where there is an estimated 400,000 pilots. In the United States, numbers are considerably less but the sport is increasing in popularity.

In flight, the pilot remains in a sitting position inside a harness hanging below the canopy. Most modern harnesses include a reserve parachute which may be deployed in case of emergency. The paraglider is launched from a hillside or towed with a winch. It is kept aloft by a ram-air aerofoil canopy. It is steered by using vertical riser lines attached to the chute.

In calm air, the average speed over ground of a standard paraglider is approximately 30/40km/h. The performance of a paraglider is measured by its glide ratio, defined as the vertical over horizontal distance it covers.

A paragliding flight may be performed by a single pilot or an experienced pilot [instructor] together with a passenger (with no prior flying experience) attached to the same canopy. Such passenger flights require special equipment (tandem paraglider). A paraglider flight can last between a few minutes and a few hours, depending on weather conditions and the skill of the pilot. Paragliders flown by an experienced pilot may cover distances of tens and even hundreds of kilometers without the use of a motor at any stage of the flight.

The origin of paragliding has roots in the sport of parachuting. In the early 1960s, American parachutist Pierre Lemoigne was successful in cutting slots in the round parachute through the canopy. This had a dramatic effect on the lift to drag ratio and allowed for the pilot to steer the chute in a predictable manner.

Paragliding can be enjoyed by adults of all ages, both men and women, as it does not require any particular strength or exceptional physical fitness. A basic training enabling a person with no previous experience to fly a paraglider independently and safely, take approximately 15 days during which the theoretical knowledge can be acquired. The training should be carried out under the supervision of experienced instructors with the use of suitable and reliable equipment.

In Ghana, Paragliding was initiated by the Ministry of Tourism in April 2005 during the annual Easter Festival in Kwahu-Atibie. It was organized to coincide with the Easter festivities that year on the Odweanoma Mountains. With the exception of 2009, the Paragliding Festival has been organized each year. As an aviation sport, the event is patronized by both local and international tourists during the Easter season. In addition, Paragliding has also been adopted as part of the tourism calendar of events in Ghana.
